STATE ELECTIONS ENFORCEMENT COMMISSION ANNOUNCES EIGHTEENTH PUBLIC GRANTS OF SEASON

HARTFORD, CT – September 21, 2016 – The State Elections Enforcement Commission (the “Commission”) announced that it will make its eighteenth public grant payments under the Citizens’ Election Program (the “CEP”) for the November 8, 2016 general election. The Commission determined that state representative candidates Ethan Book (R – 128th District), Richard DePalma (R – 116th District), Paul Panos (R – 5th District), and Geraldo Reyes (D – 75th District) were eligible to receive Program grants. The Commission also determined that state senate candidates Arlene Avery (D – 35th District), John Kissel (R – 7th District), and Carolyn Mirek (R – 3rd District) were eligible to receive Program grants.

The CEP is a voluntary program which allows qualifying candidates for General Assembly and statewide offices to receive full public financing. To qualify for public campaign financing, candidates must demonstrate they have substantial support from the public. Candidates for state representative accomplish this by raising $5,000 from at least 150 individuals residing in municipalities in their district. Candidates for state senate accomplish this by raising $15,000 from at least 300 individuals residing in municipalities in their district. Participating candidates may only accept small dollar contributions from certain individuals—the maximum contribution is $100—and no contributions from state contractors or PACs. In 2016, general election grant amounts are $28,150 for state representative candidates and $95,710 for state senate candidates. The Commission will be accepting grant applications from candidates until October 14th.

Since it was enacted, the CEP has considerably altered the electoral process. The CEP set off a sweeping change in the way candidates raise campaign funds by reducing the influence of large contributions and shifting the goals of campaign fundraising towards small dollar contributions from actual people, rather than special interests. Candidates no longer require access to personal wealth or the support of special interests, like state contractors, businesses, unions or PACs. Today, Connecticut candidates can mount successful campaigns solely relying on the support of individuals in their community. Now in its fifth full election cycle, the CEP represents an important effort to restore the public’s trust in the institutions of democratic governance.
